

THE FINNISH SOCIETY FOR NUTRITION RESEARCH

PHOTOS: KOTIMAISET KASVIKSET RY

The Finnish Society for Nutrition Research is a scientific society for supporting and promoting nutrition research in Finland. The main activity of the Society is to organize scientific symposia. In addition, the Society donates research and travel grants to its members.

Most of the Society's members have a higher academic degree in nutrition. A number of members are expert researchers and practitioners in fields ranging from medicine and natural sciences to technology.